New Gateway Editor Is Mary Beth Meyers; Staff Is Chosen

By ARLO GRAFTON

The new editor of the GATEWAY for the Spring semester has been announced.

Mary Beth Meyers, a 20-year-old journalism major, was appointed at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Student Publications Monday.

Mary Beth has proven herself

qualified for the position in many ways. She has spent four semesters working on the GATEWAY, three of which were spent as an editor. After spending one semester as a reporter, she followed in the next three as society editor, news editor and this semester has been the managing editor.

Mary Beth's versatility in journalism came out when she was given the tough assignment of writing the story on the four Omaha University students for the special safety edition. She handled this assignment with tremendous success. She was also instrumental in helping the GATEWAY win the Ad Club award for UCS coverage by a college newspaper. She wrote the articles on the Christ Child Center where she is presently a part-time employee.

Mary Beth is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and historian for that group. She is also a member of Angels Flight, Marching Angels, Press Club, WRA and Panhellenic alternate.

Backing up Mary Beth will be a staff that has also proven themselves worthy of their positions for second semester.

Back again for another semester as an editor will be Paul Beavers, who next semester will take on a double title, that of managing-news editor.

Heading the feature department will be Sheri Hronek, who has made many people sit up and take notice of her distinctive style of writing for the past semester.

Mike Moran, who has pecked out many sports stories for the GATEWAY the past two years, will take over as the new sports editor.

The new society editor will be Rosalie Chlupacek, who has spent one semester as a reporter for the GATEWAY.

Last semester's sport editor, Tom Ash, will take over the position of make-up editor.

Leo Meidlinger, who spent a great deal of time editing copy and writing headlines this semester, will be the copy editor.

Heading a new department titled special events, will be Arlo Grafton.

Brown Gets Title

A new title has been added to the staff of the TOMAHAWK.

Roger Brown, the current sports editor for the yearbook, has been granted a special title—associate editor.

This was approved at the December meeting of the Board of Student Publications.

The title was given to Brown for his time and effort that he has contributed to student publications.

He has spent many hours not

Brown

only on the TOMAHAWK, but has been a tremendous help to the staff of the GATEWAY.

Brown was nominated for the position by Malanie Jeub, current TOMAHAWK editor, and Paul Peterson, head of the journalism department.

It was the opinion of these two people and backed up by many others in the department that he deserved more credit than he was getting. It was felt that the new title would give more recognition for the work he is doing.

Pay Fines or Forget Finals

The final test schedule is out, the semester is coming to a close and everyone will "close their books" ... even the Dean of Students' Office.

An "open account" in that office can cause the student embarrassment, and cost him time, money, and inconvenience.

If a student has an unpaid traffic ticket, a class denial is sent to his instructors and he is not permitted to take finals.
The student will then have to rush to the Dean of Students'
Office to square the account.

There are finals scheduled on Saturday and the Dean's office is closed on Saturdays. The student must wait until Monday to "pay-up". The student who misses the final must pay a $5.00 fee and arrange for rescheduling at the instructor's convenience.

Ligary fines have a similar effect but the effect is not so immediate. The student is permitted to take the finals, but his grades are not recorded. If he transfers to another school or is graduated, his transcript will not be forwarded.

According to Dean Pflasterer, this is not a reprimand, but rather a method of enforcement of the student regulations. Student cooperation is necessary to cut costs—the student's as well as the administration's.

Registration

Full compliance with the following registration schedule will speed up the process and eliminate much confusion:

made at the same time as registering.

2-Day Program Set for Dramas

The Nebraska Speech Association is sponsoring a two-day drama festival at the University of Nebraska February 15-16.

Any student experienced in drama or interpretation is invited to participate in the program.

They should have a one-act play 25 to 40 minutes long or a suitable interpretation presentation of the same quality.

An outstanding dramatic authority from the mid-west will be the critique judge.

Trophies will be awarded for the best play direction by a student, the best actor, and the best actress.

For further information see Warren Gore of the Speech Department, 315A in the Administration Building.

Tele-lecture Exchange Set for OU and Colo.

This year's spring semester will see the start of the first credit course exchange via the Tele-Lecture system between two Universities.

Industrial and Social Psychology classes will be offered to students at the University of Omaha and the University of Colorado.

Director of Conferences Michel Beilis said this is the first such experiment in the nation.
It is still in the experimental stage, he said, because student reaction to the method will not be known until the end of the

Pres. Bail Rehired For One Year Term

Omaha University President Milo Bail was rehired for the next school year at the monthly board of regents meeting held on Thursday, Dec. 20.

Dr. Bail, who will be 65 during the summer, was hired for only one year under the rules and regulations of the University.

President Bail was previously hired for a three-year term.

He may be rehired annually until he is 70 years old, at which time he must retire according to the regulations.

Dr. Bail's salary was not discussed, but will be taken up when the budget for the University is figured in the spring.

semester.

From the University of Omaha,
Doctor William E. Jaynes will teach Industrial Psychology.
His classes will meet in the Eppley
Conference Center's Centurion Room.

Doctor Keith Davis is to instruct a class in Social Psychology from the University of Colorado. Each professor will teach his subject with students in front of him and students listening from the other university.
A student teacher will supervise classes at the school away from the teacher. Students may communicate through microphones to their teacher should questions occur.

Motion pictures, slides, and other video presentations will be arranged in advance so that when Dr. Jaynes discusses a slide at OU, students at CU will see the same one on their screen.

During the semester, the two professors are to visit each other's schools so that their home students will have an idea of how they sound "on the line."

A number of outstanding non-academic psychologists have been invited to participate in the experiment. They will address the classes via tele-lecture.

The classes require no additional registration procedure.

Proposed Mill Levy

Omaha Senators William Moulton, Sam Klaver and William Skarda this week jointly introduced a bill in the Nebraska Unicameral to provide that "Omaha may, by a vote of the people, increase from two to four mills the maximum levy for support of Omaha University."

The bill (LB-118) must run the legislative route of committee and public hearings before it can be acted upon by the 43 members of the Legislature.

Lincoln observers indicate LB-118 probably will be passed "without too much of a hassle."

If the lawmakers approve the bill, Omaha voters will be asked to okay the mill levy increase in a special election.

The OU Board of Regents have tentatively set two dates for the election—either March 26 or April 2. Nothing has definitely been decided on the election dates.

In the past, Omaha U has had to go to the voters only twice—May 6, 1930, when Omahans elected to establish a municipal university (a one mill property tax levy was okayed at that time), and May, 1951, when the levy was doubled to two mills.

Each mill provides some 500 thousand dollars to OU's income.

Currently, University records show, tax money provides 36 per cent of the OU operating budget. Students foot 60 per cent of the bill. The remaining four per cent of the University's income comes from miscellaneous sources.

During the past eight years enrollment has increased on an average of 700 per year (15 per cent); tuition has averaged an increase of 125 thousand dollars per year (20 per cent); while the average increase in tax has been 17 thousand dollars per year (2 per cent). That 17 thousand dollars would cover only the salaries of two associate professors.

Of every five dollars spent by OU, four dollars goes for salaries. The remaining dollar covers maintenance and equipment expenses.

For every taxpayer dollar received by OU, the Omaha-resident student pays $1.20; the non-resident student (outside the city) pays twice that much—$2.40.

Over the past four years, the taxpayers' share of OU costs has dropped from 46.4 per cent to 36.1 per cent.

But during the same period, the students' share of University costs has jumped from 53.1 per cent to 60.1 per cent.

The average student share of costs at all universities is only 20 per cent. University of Nebraska students' tuition covers 15 per cent of NU's operation expenses.

Sheri's Prediction for 1963? Just About the Same as '62

By SHERI HRONEK

A new year is here again—as if you didn't know. As all self-appointed prophets, nuts or you name it, I got out my crystal ball and made a few predictions for the coming year.

I had trouble seeing into my trusty crystal ball—no, not because of too much New Year's Eve. The dust was thick from studious OU inmates getting out their books to prepare for that long-awaited event—finals!

These same students are going to make a marvelous discovery—that building they pass through on their way to the OUampi Room or the Administration Building is not there just to provide shelter from the cold. It's—of all things—the library!

After finals, I see weary students rejoicing in that glorious semester break. Just how are they going to celebrate? Why, by standing in line to register, that's how. Skiing trips will have to be postponed this semester break.

Looking further into the future, I see students standing on corners and knocking on doors—anything to get OU's new tax through. It would be nice to see many doing much for so little. To keep tuition from pulling harder on their purse strings, maybe they will become more civic minded.

Mothers will be happy to get them out of the house with the rest of the kids—if school starts two weeks earlier. With semester break at Christmas, they will get two vacations for the price of one. Then school will be out two weeks earlier, I presume. One question—what happens to that week they usually get at semester break? Pity the poor student who counts on Christmas vacation to catch up on his studies!

That's some of the things I saw in my crystal ball—but no guarantees on whether or not it's trusty. I predict '63 to be like '62, only different—so with that, I wish you "lots of luck."

Need Applications To Start Education

Beginning with fall semester 1963, all students preparing to teach must make formal application for admittance to the teacher education program. Application forms will be available in the office of the Dean of the College of Teacher Education.

Students must be admitted to the program before they may take courses in Education.

In order to be eligible for admittance the student must have:

(1) At least thirty semester credit hours of work with a grade point average of 2.0 or more.

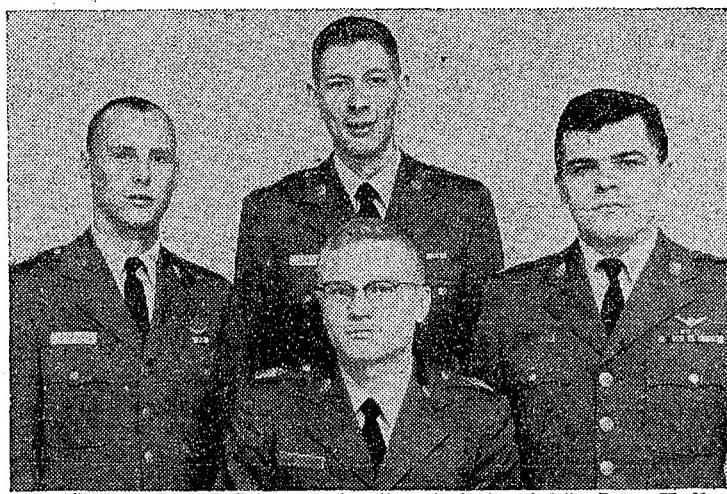

(2) Have the recommendation of his advisor and one other full-time faculty member.

Deadline for Pictures Extended to Jan. 20

Deadline for senior pictures has been extended to January 20.

Graduating students are to pay $4.00 fee at cashiers office and the receipt to Gene Sardou's studio at the Crossroads.

Ivan Christensen business manager, said that 340 seniors have paid their $4.00 fee which is half of total students still to have pictures taken.

P and S Grants Four Awards

Four senior AFROTC cadets were presented scholarships by the Society of the Pen and Sword yesterday.

The recipients are: Cadet Colonel Dean H. Berk, Cadet First Lieutenant James E. Cox, Cadet First Lieutenant John F. Kaffenberger, and Cadet Captain David H. Schuur.

The scholarships were presented to the cadets during their respective ROTC drill periods.

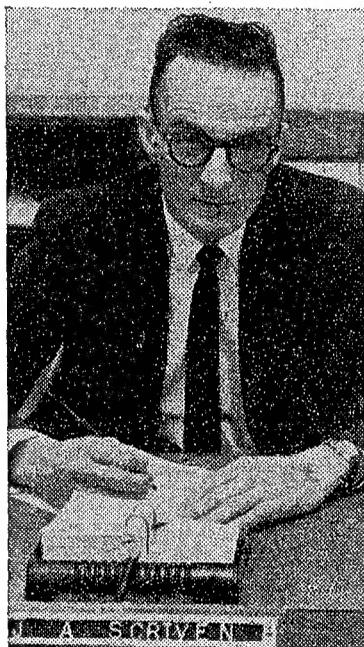

The scholarships are awarded to the outstanding AFROTC cadets at Omaha University who show a sincere interest in the Armed Forces; and individuals whom the Society of the Pen and Sword feels will make a notable contribution to the officer corps.

The scholarships are for tuition and fees for the next semester.

Funds for the scholarships are made available by professional military personnel who are, or have been enrolled at Omaha University.

Scriven Assumes Job As New Adm. Director

Scriven

Dr. James A. Scriven is the new Director of Admissions at Omaha University.

He assumed the $9,500 a year post January 3 which was vacated last spring by the resignation of Mrs. Alice Holt.

Dr. Scriven will double as an assistant professor of education.

He received his PhD from the University of Oklahoma, and his Masters and Bachelors degrees from Kansas State University. He also served on the faculties of those two Big Eight schools.

Evaluation of College Job for OU Prof

Dr. Karl Büsch and Dr. Joseph Dunn of the biology and education departments will attend a school evaluation of Hastings College January 16 and 17 at Hastings, Nebr.

The visitation and evaluation is promoted by the Nebraska Department of Education. The evaluation is of the Hastings College program of instruction.

Frats Take Notice: This Is the Way The Greeks Began

By Art Stevens

The question very seldom arises: How did Fraternities get their start?

Was Aristotle the first Phi Beta Kappa?

Did Frat hazing shorten Alexander's life?

Did the saying "out of the frat into the fire" originate with John Hus?

At the University of Omaha, according to student handbook, there are six social fraternities, three professional frats and 12 honor clubs and societies. All of these employ a Greek name.

All of the members will be interested in buying a seven page book published by Der Spiegel Press and entitled Frats, Laps and Taps. The author, Guy Bettagamma, answers some important questions in this comprehensive study of post-Greek life.

What a lot of people don't realize is that Frats have a long and storied past. They didn't originate with the Greeks as some would have us believe, but in the Pleistocene age, 150,000 BC (approximate) with Neanderthal man, who is the forerunner of today's goldfish swallowing, vote-getting college man-about-sixteen-pushups.

But Mr. Bettagamma hastens to add that not all Fraternities use the goldfish as a method of initiation.

In fact, none of them do since September 17, 1939. That was the day a nearsighted Frat President, Pete Grey, mistook the piranha tank at the city aquarium for one containing goldfish.

One startling discovery made is the fact that our Frat forefathers had a very marked curvature of the spine indicating that push-ups were an integral part of the Frat initiating policy even then. Either that or pledges were used as horses—something that didn't come along until Cro-Magnon Man launched his hairy leg into the stirrup some 100,000 years later (approximate).

By the time the Greeks came along, Fraternities were in full swing. The Greeks naturally added their alphabet and one very strong element of Frat life, the fraternity pin, the token and symbol of yes-sirring Frat men in coffee shoppes throughout the nation.

Of course, the Greeks had a very realistic approach—how else to keep their togas closed?

Mr. Bettagamma spent some anxious moments in compiling background for his book. Fraternities are noted for keeping their secrets to themselves and it wasn't until he had personally joined "each social fraternity" that he was able to put together this amazing account of campus social life.

This was naturally expensive and time consuming. Work on the book originally started in 1887. The 92-year-old Bettagamma estimates that he spent almost a quarter of a million dollars in research.

He holds degrees from Ohio State, U of Illinois, Florida State, UCLA, New Mexico Mines, Utah State, Montana State, Harvard, Memphis State, College of the Pacific, Pratt College and the University of Mississippi at Chicago.

"But," according to the author, "the experience has been fruitful."

This was particularly true on October 4, 1954 during a speaking engagement at a Fri Ratha Bakon rally in Minot, North Dakota. He and his group were barraged with fruit by a group of Selta Chi Lambas. Bettagamma immediately gave the Chi Lamba sign of brotherhood, the right arm extended behind the back joining the left hand and the right hand in an interlocking clasp. This immediately stopped the fruit throwing but Bettagamma, unfortunately, threw both shoulders out of joint and lost two pins and three keys during his effort "to give the sign and avoid the fruit."

Terry Bernth Voted Coolest

Zeta Tau Alpha chose Terry Bernth as their 1963 Coolest Man at the annual Fantasy in Frost Dance, Dec. 21.

Bernth

The dance was held from 9:00 p.m. to midnight in the Student Center Ballroom. During intermission, the Coolest Man was announced, and Susan Rester presented him with a tie clasp and cufflink set.

After the announcement Peggy DeLong, pledge music chairman presented a piano selection for entertainment.

Linda Hill was in charge of decorations. Larry Bell and the Cyclones provided the music for the dance.

A cocktail party was held for the Zetas and their dates before the dance from 7:00 to 9:00.

at the home of Judy Cisar.

The Zeta Christmas Party was held Sunday, Dec. 30, at the home of Donna Shiro. Announcements were made of Meanest Active Ellen Góeser, and runner-up Joyce Hunter; Sweetest Active Judy McCoy, and runner-up Sue Morris; Meanest Pledge, Donna Taylor and Sweetest Pledge Jacque Newcomer.

Jeub Vies for Title of Colonel

At the December 18 meeting of Angels Flight, Malanie Jeub was selected by the executive council of Arnold Air Society to represent them as a Midwest Little Colonel candidate.

The Midwest Little Colonel will be selected at the Arnold Air Society conclave to be held today and tomorrow. The winner will be announced at a dance tonight. The affair will be held at Brookings, S.D.

Malanie is a 20-year-old junior majoring in journalism. She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha, Student Council, French Club, Press Club, and WRA.

Midge Butters, Flight Leader, Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Davis, Eddie Powers and Clem Steyer will accompany Malanie. Midge is the official delegate for the Omaha University Chapter of the Angels Flight.

TV Final Productions Are: 'This Is Your Life, Stalag 17'

Little Louie in a new role.

The final productions of the Television Techniques Class are scheduled to "go on the air" Thursday. Both are one half-hour long and were worked out by, and star, members of the class. Paul Borge, head of the radio-TV department, is supervising the productions.

"This is Your Life" and "Stalag 17" will be shown on closed circuit television in the Applied Arts building at 9 a.m. and 10 a.m., respectively. Students and members of the faculty are invited to view the shows in room 256 in the AA building's new wing.

This is the first time these final projects are being presented on closed circuit television. The "This is Your Life" program is a humorous take-off on its original television counterpart. It was written by Don Moran, will be directed by Bob Burge with technical direction by Jim Koblas.

The cast includes OU footballer Louis Miloni in the part of 'mama'. Other cast members are John Fahey, Jack Herbert, Jerry Scheschy, Don Moran, Joe Breunig, and Marleen Staenberg.

The "Stalag 17" show was adapted to television by members of the TV techniques class. It's a comic melodrama concerning life in a World War II German prisoner of war camp.

Produced by Jerry Johnson and directed by Jim Cox, the show's cast is headed by Jim Stoneburner and Bruce Bradfield.

McFarlin Is 'Typical Man'

Lyle McFarlin, Lambda Chi Alpha, was named the 1962 Typical Farternity Man at the Sigma Kappa Violet Formal Dec. 14.

Other candidates were Lynn Olson, Pi Kappa Alpha; Jack

McFarlin

Benedick, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Jon Knickman, Tau Kappa Epsilon; and John Larson, Theta Chi.

Chuck Halda and the Cimarrons played for the dance from 9-12 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom.

Sigma Kappa pledges presented paddles to their sorority mothers at the pledge-active Christmas party Dec. 19 at the home of Ruth Helligso.

The announcement of Silvija Vebastiks as sweetest pledge; Diane Glenn, sweetest active; Betty Bluvas, meanest pledge; and Laima Runcis, meanest active, was made at the party.

Sig Chi Omicron Scholarship to Joanne Volenec

At the annual Zeta Tau Alpha Christmas party, Joanne Volenec was awarded the Sigma Chi Omicron scholarship, which pays $150.

Joanne is a senior majoring in biology. She plans to graduate in June.

The funds for this scholarship come from the building fund of the local chapter of Zeta.

It is awarded to a junior or senior who has made significant contributions to the sorority. Grade point and need are also factors in the selection of the recipient.

Last year Barbara Kidwiler received the scholarship.

'Lull' to Be Held Before Final Storm

"The Lull Before the Storm" is the theme for the 1963 sophomore dance, to be held tonight in the S. C. Ballroom from 9 to 12.

Johnny Ray Gomez and the U-Neeks will play for the last social function before the onset of final exams.

Admission to the dance will be activity cards. Casual dress may be worn.

Frats Take Notice

One amazing statistic of the Frat's publication is the fact that if every social fraternity member stood hand in hand, the line would extend from Salt Lake City to Portland, Maine—and most Sororities would band.

Omaha and Kansas City, Mo., have formed committees to ensure that the line from the west goes through their respective community.

Confidentially, the original plotting extended through St. Joseph, Mo.

I didn't mean to say "confidentially."

Shake Those Blues At Pre-Final Concert

"Relax Before Exams"—a traditional musical presentation of the Omaha University Band, will be played today between 11:30 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. in the Ball Room of the Student Center.

Pulse stirring marches and selections from Sound of Music will be the musical bill of fare. Sophomore Jana Doxon, who has sung lead roles in many local musical productions, will be featured in the Sound of Music portion of the program.

Band Director Jack Malik urges everyone to attend and "shake those pre-final blues." Admission is free.

Tryouts Held in Desperate Hours

Tryouts for the year's second University Theater production, "The Desperate Hours," were held Jan. 7, 8 and 9 at 7 p.m. in the Administration Auditorium.

Written by Joseph Hayes, the play has a cast of 14—three women and 11 men.

"The Desperate Hours" will be presented Feb. 14, 15 and 16 in the Administration Auditorium under the direction of Dr. Edwin Clark, professor of speech and director of the University Theater.

A GUIDE FOR THE UNMONEYED

R. L. Sigafos was a keen, ambitious lad; and when he finished high school he wished mightily to go on with his education. It seemed, however, a forlorn hope. R. L.'s father could not send the boy to college because a series of crop failures had brought him to the brink of disaster. (R. L.'s father raised orchids which, in North Dakota, is a form of agriculture fraught with risk.)

It was, therefore, squarely up to R. L. He could go to college only if he worked his way through. This was a prospect that dismayed him. He had a deep-seated fear that the task would be too great, that he would never be able to carry on a full, busy college life and still find time to do odd jobs and make money.

Racked with misgivings, R. L. paced the streets, pondering his dilemma. One day, walking and brooding, he came upon a park bench and sat down and lit a Marlboro cigarette. R. L. always lit a Marlboro when he was low in his mind. R. L. also always lit a Marlboro when he was merry. The fact is there is no occasion—happy or sad, pensive or exuberant, cheery or solemn—when Marlboro with its fine filter and fine flavor is not entirely welcome, as you will discover when you go to your favorite tobacconist and buy some, as we—the makers of Marlboro and I and R. L. Sigafos—hope you will do real soon.

Sitting and thinking and smoking a Marlboro on the park bench, R. L. was suddenly interrupted by a small, quavering voice which said, "My boy, you are troubled. Can I help?"

I GAVE A FENCING LESSON TO THE DEAN OF WOMEN

Seated beside R. L. was a tiny, gnarled man with wispy, snow-white hair. His skin was almost transparent, showing a delicate tracery of fragile bones beneath. His back was bent, and his hands trembled. But his eyes were bright and clear. R. L. looked into those eyes, into the wrinkled face. He saw wisdom there, and experience, and kindness. "Do you think, sir," said R. L., "that a boy can work his way through college and still enjoy a rich, full campus life?"

"Why, bless you, son," replied the stranger with a rheumy chuckle, "of course you can. In fact, I did it myself."

"Was it very hard?" asked R. L.

"Yes, it was hard," the stranger admitted. "But when one is young, all things are possible. I, for example, used to get up at five o'clock every morning to stoke the furnace at the SAE house. At six I had to milk the ewes at the school of animal husbandry. At seven I gave a fencing lesson to the Dean of Women. At eight I had a class in early Runic poets. At nine I gave haircuts at the Gamma Phi Beta house. At ten I had differential calculus. At eleven I posed for a life class. At twelve I watered soup at the Union. At one I had a class in Oriental languages. At two I exercised the mice in psych lab. At three I gave the Dean of Women another fencing lesson. At four I had qualitative analysis. At five I went clamming. At six I cut meat for the football team. At seven I ushered at the movies. At eight I had my ears pierced so that at nine I could tell fortunes in a gypsy tearoom. At ten I had a class in astronomy. At eleven I tucked in the football team. At twelve I studied and at three I went to sleep."

"Sir," cried R. L., "I am moved and inspired by your shining example!"

"It was nothing," said the stranger modestly, shaking his frail white head. "It was just hard work, and hard work never hurt anybody."

"Would you mind telling me, sir," said R. L., "how old you are now?"

"Twenty-two," said the stranger.

Cagers Take Third at Hastings, Seek 6th Win Tomorrow Night

By MIKE MORAN

The University of Omaha's rapidly improving young basketball team will be out to reach the even record tomorrow night as they host the Ichabods of Washburn at eight in the field-house.

The OU record fell to 5-6 over the Christmas vacation as the Indians dropped two of three in the Hastings Holiday Tourney and finished fourth.

Omaha opened strong with a come from behind, 69-67 win over Central Oklahoma in the first round. Charlie Meyers sank a basket and a free throw with only seconds remaining to put the game on ice for OU.

The Indians were not so fortunate in the second round as Bethany College of Kansas dropped the Omahans, 83-63. OU led at the half but the Kansans came back strong in the third period to salt the issue away.

The tussle for third place saw the Indians fall to Mankato State of Minnesota, 75-70. The game was close all the way but superior height and rebounding paid off for the Minnesotans.

In games before the holidays, the Indians dropped a pair to Augustana and Pittsburg State.

Augustana dropped the Indians at Sioux Falls, 70-60 and Pitt State spoiled the OU home opener, 78-66.

The Indians got back on the right track last Saturday night with a 61-42 win over Hastings College at home. Leading only 23-20 after a sloppily played first half, the Indians displayed a fast break and superior shooting as they pulled away in the last twenty minutes to notch the win.

Charlie Meyers once again led the Indians surge to victory.

OU Won't Take Foreign Athletes

A group of Americans, with state department backing, is undertaking to help develop 1964 Olympic track prospects for nations which don't have the coaching talent or competition to bring them to their peak.

The University of Omaha was almost one of the colleges cooperating with the plan.

A member of our Athletic Department, E. F. Gorr, who has a national reputation in track and field, was one of the original advisors for the plan announced recently by Davis Dichter, executive secretary of Sports International, an organization devoted to expanding America's role in international sports.

Participating schools in a before Christmas press account of the plan included the University of Chicago, Georgetown, Colorado State, Carleton College at Northfield, Minn., Central State at Wilberforce, Ohio, Kearney (Neb.) State, Maryland and the University of Omaha.

According to Mr. Gorr, the inclusion of Omaha in the original listing was a bit premature. "The Sports International's release of Omaha on the list of participants was a misunderstanding actually, the lack of housing and a financial problem preclude our participation at this time," said Mr. Gorr.

The plan called for athletes from Africa and Latin America to spend 100 days in this country starting Feb. 23, as guests of colleges and universities which have volunteered to let them train and compete with their track squads.

The state department will be the talent scout. Its foreign missions will seek and recommend outstanding track athletes to be invited to come to this country.

One of Omaha's problems was the fact that the host colleges and universities will pay the athletes' expenses while they are in the United States.

The 5-11 frosh from Newark, New Jersey, tallied 15 points and 10 rebounds to pace the Indian attack.

Jon Lloyd, another Newark native, pumped in 12 points and some hot second half shooting to help the OU cause.

The 6-2 Lloyd, Nebraska's leading frosh scorer from last year, now leads the team in eight departments, including scoring, rebounding and free throw percentage.

Washburn brings a rapidly improving team to the OU court tomorrow night. The Ichabods knocked off favorite Fort Hays State last week and won the Wayne Invitational over the break.

With a front line of 6-5 Jerry Williams, 6-5 Ron Ford and 6-6 Gregg Gibb, plus guards Gary Harbison at 6-4 and Junior College All-America Buddy Deckard, the Ichabods present a tall and potent attack with speed.

Washburn knocked off St. Benedict's Tuesday night so after two CIC games, the cellar-picked Kansans are on top of the hill at 2-0.

Omaha has been improving almost as rapidly due to the coming along of Lloyd and Meyers and the return to form of dead-eye Paul Kaster.

Kaster, who averaged 22 points a game after joining the Indians at the semester last year, popped in crucial baskets in the Hastings game and looked ready to regain his earlier poise.

Wrestlers Now at 4-1

The Omaha University grapplers go onto the wrestling mat tomorrow with a 4-1 record when they host Moorehead State at 2:00 p.m.

Last week the Indians fell to the Northern Illinois Huskies with a 20-13 loss. OU entered the match with three wins and no losses, the same record they held before they met the Huskies on the OU gridiron, the only game they lost.

Tuesday, January 8, Omaha defeated Graceland College of Lamoni, Iowa by a 24-10 victory.

A rookie matman who has proven his ability to wrestle competitively is Gary Cozad, a 123 pound freshman from Benson who never wrestled in high school but came to OU and has a record of four wins and one loss to date.
